

PICTURE: ALAN JONES

AJ190607-A3

RIGHT NOTE: Goldstone Primary School pupils get acquainted with the keyboards

Key to musical expression

50 The Argus
Appeal
Making a difference

Fifty years of caring

Supported by Legal & General

PUPILS have been testing out musical instruments bought with a donation from The Argus Appeal.

Brighton and Hove Music and Performing Arts used a cheque for £9,250 to pay for new keyboards.

The instruments will be lent to the city's primary schools that are taking part in the Soundmakers project.

The 15-week programme involves youngsters learning basic musical concepts such as tone production, scales and chords under the guidance of their class teacher and with the help of a music specialist.